Reds bigger threat to RP than Moro extremists—AFP

COMMUNIST insurgents are still the biggest security threat to the Philippines, more so than Muslim extremists tied to foreign networks, the military chief of staff said in remarks released yesterday.

The Communist Party of the Philippines (CPP) and its guerrilla wing, the 8,500-strong New People's Army (NPA), have been waging a 35-year Marxist insurgency.

"The CPP/NPA is still considered the main threat to our peace and security because of its nationwide presence and demonstrated capability to launch armed rebellion and legal struggle in pursuit of its objective of seizing political power," Armed Forces Chief Gen. Macario Abaya said.

"Legal struggle" commonly refers to the insurgents' use of front organizations to legally agitate against government while keeping clandestine ties to the rebels.

Abaya, in a speech to reporters last Thursday, cited the communists' "militant and immoral act of recruiting minors as armed combatants to beef up their dwindling ranks," as well as its stepped-up campaign of extorting money from businesses in the countryside.

While Muslim rebels are largely limited to sporadic requests of the country where the Muslim minority is based, the communists are active in scattered areas throughout the archipelago.

Abaya said government forces this year had succeeded in "reducing the CPP/NPA capabilities and influence in priority areas," but had been forced to divert their resources to securing the holding of May 10 provincial elections.

The communists had resisted to extorting money from capitalists and campaigners in exchange for allowing them to campaign in areas of rebel activity, Abaya recalled.

Peace talks between the communists and the government are continuing despite the absence of a ceasefire between the two sides, Abaya said. "This will not impede our current operations against (the communist) armed elements." The last round of peace talks in Oslo, Norway, in June, frustrated over the rebels' demands for compensation for human rights victims. The communists are pressing the government to hold the next round of talks in Beijing.

To cope with the threat, Abaya said the military was upgrading its equipment and logistic procurement and concentrating on acquiring more "man-shoot-and-communicate" hardware that will have more impact on counterinsurgency operations. Agente Press Bureau

Most Metro Manilans support house arrest for Erap, poll shows

MORE THAN three years after he was ousted from office, former president Joseph Estrada continues to have the sympathies of Metro Manila, a survey said.

A survey conducted by NHA Research International showed that most Metro Manila residents favor special treatment for the deposed leader and support his house arrest.

The International has allowed Estrada to transfer from his detention cell in Cebu City to his family residence in Tondo, Manila.

The survey conducted a week after the Sandiganbayan ruling, found that a majority of 63 percent of Metro Manila residents agreed that Estrada be placed under house arrest.

Among the respondents who support the house arrest, 80 percent agreed that Estrada has not been proven guilty and should be given "better treatment than guilty prisoners" while 76 percent agreed that the house arrest would do away with the expenses of detaining Estrada.

Only 37 percent of the 300 respondents polled by NHA Research were in favor of the house arrest, while 12 percent were undecided, the survey showed.

The July 14-15 survey had a margin of error of plus or minus 3.5 percent with a 95 percent confidence level. It used random sampling, stratification and telephone interviews.

The survey was not commissioned by any group, but was part of the internal operations of NHA Research, an independent research firm which used to be affiliated with the US-based Harris Group & Associates, said Virginia Thomas, project manager of the survey.

In its survey, NHA asked the respondents opposed to the house arrest to choose from among three reasons for their disagreement. Most or 68 percent of the respondents who disagreed with the house arrest agreed that "his price, even even Erap, should be given special treatment," while another 74 percent believe that Estrada committed a crime and should be punished.

Only 38 percent of those against the house arrest agreed with the statement that Estrada should be treated worse than a common criminal, due to the gravity of his crime.

Estrada being cited by the Sandiganbayan for bribery and plunder charges. The anti-graft court earlier ruled that Estrada could not be prosecuted for using the "One Minute" plan to open a bank account in 2000, since the practice was not illegal at the time. D.J. Vito, DPA/Bureau

PHNOM PENH, Sept. 27 — Cambodia's Prime Minister, Hun Sen, admitted today that his government's nuclear program was arms-related, a move that could lead to international sanctions.

Sen said in a speech to the National Assembly that the program was "for peaceful purposes" but did not deny that it was also for military use.

The admission came in the wake of a report by the International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA) that Cambodia's nuclear program was "not peaceful" and that the country was "in violation of its obligations under the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty (NPT)."

BOP posted $407-M deficit in June

RP Japan to hold 4th round of trade talks

By Romulo D. Romulo

MANILA, June 27 — The Philippines' trade deficit with Japan widened to $407 million in June, according to the Bureau of Economic Analysis (BEA) today. The deficit was the largest in the history of the country's trade with Japan, which has been a consistent trade partner since the 1970s.

The BEA said that the deficit was driven by a sharp increase in imports from Japan, which rose to $1.2 billion in June from $1.1 billion in May. Exports to Japan, however, remained relatively flat at $793 million.

The trade deficit with Japan is a reflection of the country's growing dependence on Japanese goods, particularly in the electronics and automotive sectors. The BEA noted that the deficit was also a result of the country's high import of raw materials and intermediate goods from Japan.

Despite the widening deficit, the Philippines' trade with Japan remains a significant part of its foreign trade. The country's trade with Japan accounted for 10.5 percent of its total trade in June, compared to 10.2 percent in May.

DOF urges BIR to go after jeepney, bus operators

By Benjamin N. Sison

MANILA, July 16 (PNA) — The Department of Finance (DOF) has urged the Bureau of Internal Revenue (BIR) to intensify its tax collection drive against jeepney and bus operators, particularly those who are not registered with the BIR.

DOF Secretary Carlos Dominga Jr. said that the government has lost a significant amount of revenue due to the widespread practice of tax evasion among these operators. He emphasized that the BIR should focus on identifying and penalizing those who are not complying with the tax laws.

Dominga noted that the informal sector, which includes many jeepney and bus operators, has been a major source of revenue loss for the government. He called for a more aggressive approach from the BIR to ensure that all operators are paying their fair share of taxes.

DTI raises construction firms' minimum capital requirement

By Dennis M. Sison

MANILA, July 16 (PNA) — The Department of Trade and Industry (DTI) has raised the minimum capital requirement for construction firms, effective July 17, 2002.

The new requirement is set at P10 million for firms that are registered with the DTI. This is a significant increase from the previous requirement of P5 million. The DTI said that the increase is necessary to ensure that construction firms have sufficient capital to undertake large-scale projects and to maintain a high level of financial stability.

The DTI also announced that it will conduct a thorough review of the capital requirements for other types of businesses to ensure that they are fair and reasonable.

Cocoa oil exports down 14.2%

By P. Sison & Benjamin

MANILA, July 16 (PNA) — The Philippines' cocoa oil exports have declined by 14.2% in the first half of 2002 compared to the same period last year, according to data from the Bureau of Economic Analysis (BEA).

The BEA reported that the value of cocoa oil exports in the first six months of 2002 was P1.2 billion, down from P1.4 billion in the first six months of 2001. The decline is attributed to a combination of factors, including a decrease in the volume of exports and a drop in the price of cocoa oil on the international market.

The BEA also noted that the Philippines remains a significant exporter of cocoa oil, and it expects the situation to improve in the second half of the year.

Northwest fails to justify fare hike

By Charles S. Smith

SEATTLE, July 16 (PNA) — Northwest Airlines has failed to justify its proposed fare hike to the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), according to a report from the FAA's consumer advocate.

The FAA's consumer advocate, John J. O'Connell, said that Northwest's justification for the fare hike was "unconvincing." He pointed out that the airline's costs have not increased significantly, and that the fare hike would result in a substantial increase in fares for passengers.

O'Connell also noted that Northwest has a history of raising fares without providing adequate justification. He called for the FAA to reject Northwest's proposal and to require the airline to provide a more detailed and transparent explanation of its costs and pricing strategy.

Nothing has put the issue of corporate identity in sharper focus than the case of Enron. The company's collapse in late 2001, followed by the revelation that it had been hiding billions of dollars in losses, led to a series of investigations and a major restructuring of the company. The Enron scandal has led to a new focus on corporate identity, and the need for companies to be transparent and accountable to their stakeholders.

These researchers used three conditions of acute exercise intensity, such as normal, low and high intensity, to determine the effect of exercise intensity on the release of BDNF. They found that the high intensity exercise group released significantly more BDNF than the other two groups. The researchers also found that the high intensity exercise group had a significantly higher level of BDNF in the blood than the other two groups.

No Furs' New-Old Pop

You'd think you've heard it all in the past 10 years, but when it comes to No Furs, the band's new album, Back with a More Melodic Shock, is a real shock. The band, which has been around since 1998, is back with a new sound that's more melodic and less aggressive than their previous work. The album features a mix of old-school punk and modern pop, with a focus on catchy hooks and relatable lyrics. The band's frontman, [Name], says the new sound was a deliberate choice to reach a wider audience while staying true to their roots. The album is available on [Label] and can be purchased for [Price].
